

Stephen Markowski

Tenor

STEPHEN MARKOWSKI is in his 6th year employed by Westfield Public Schools at Tamaques Elementary in addition to co-directing the Edison Intermediate School Broadway Singers. While earning his music education degree from Mason Gross School of the Arts at Rutgers University, Stephen studied vocally with Professor Eduardo Chama. As a four year member of the Rutgers University Glee Club and Kirkpatrick Choir under the baton of Dr. Patrick Gardner, he performed in venues including Lincoln Center in New York, Washington D.C., Germany, and the Netherlands. This summer, Stephen will enter his 7th year as the co-musical director of “Onstage” theater camp located in Clark, NJ. Stephen currently performs with the Central Jersey Choral Society under the direction of Christopher Loeffler as the tenor soloist. Past performances include: Elijah, the Mozart Requiem, Vespers Solemnes, Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes, and St. Paul Oratorio. He also sings with R. Douglas Sheldon and the Baldwin Festival Chorus of New York.
