

Mia Gruber

Soprano

Coloratura soprano, MIA GRUBER, studied music education and performance at Brigham Young University-Idaho under the tutelage of Dr. Jon Linford. She has enjoyed many opportunities to share her love of music as a soloist and in choral works including as a soprano soloist in Handel's "Messiah", Brahms "Ziguenelider," and Gerald Finzi's "In Terra Pax," as well as the role of Antonia from the Tales of Hoffman by Jaches Offenbach. In recent years Mia enjoys teaching music privately, playing organ for church services, and loves singing to the much younger audience of her two toddlers. She is delighted to once again be singing solo and choral works.

