

Michael Wisnosky

Bass-Baritone

MICHAEL WISNOSKY is a teacher, performer, and composer from Bucks County, PA. He maintains an active schedule of performances around the tristate area. Some of his notable credits include the orchestral premiere of Eric Houghton’s Pioneer Songs and HUB City Opera’s performance of Carl Orff’s Der Mond (Fourth Bursche). Currently, Michael sings with the Philadelphia Orchestra Symphonic Choir under the baton of Yannick Nézet-Séguin.

Michael has enjoyed success as a composer. Most recently, his art song “A Certain Slant of Light” won 3rd place in Sparks & Wiry Cries’ 2022 NYC songSLAM. Michael’s next big project, a horror film, is set to premier in late 2022.

Currently, Michael serves as the keyboardist and music director for Kingston United Methodist Church, directs theatre at the Princeton Friends School, and is on staff at Bucks County Community College. Michael recently joined the faculty of Cornerstone Music, where he instructs students in voice, piano, and music theory/composition.
